DiscussIT Topic 6: Where is our country headed?

Discuss IT Topic: Over the last week, our country has had growing concerns on immigration bans, border safety, and executive orders that remind us of issues that have been plaguing our country for years. Now that Trump has been elected President, there has been people threatening to blow up the White House, human right protests, and a plethora of other sensitive subject matters that are very compelling to individual groups of people. Why have these issues come up now as we head into a time in which it seems no one is going to be happy with the outcomes? Will this create a split in this country and place citizens against one another when it comes to their views? In your opinion, what other topics are at the forefront of concern? Explain...

Response: Please make sure all grammar, spelling, indentation, and punctuation is correct.

All these issues have come up because of the people that are disrespectful and don't like trump. These people haven't gotten the fact through their thick skulls that Donald Trump is the president and that's the final say. And he wouldn't be impeached right now because he has done nothing wrong. These issues are coming up because no matter what executive order he signs even if it's good for the country, some of the people are so brainwashed they will keep believing that all his actions are harmful toward people and the country. This election has already created a major split in our country. The popular vote was basically 50/50. This is not good because it provides no balance in the views of both parties in congress. Citizens views have been against one another for many years, this presidency will not change that, it may further worsen though. The newest biggest topic is the travel ban. Trump signed the executive order not allowing people from 7 countries to enter the U.S. Protests have been taking place all over the country in different cities and airports. It is also difficult for airlines because sometimes a federal judge overturns the order, but later the white house restores it. So it is a constant back and forth for them and immigrants trying to enter the U.S. from those countries.
